Thoughts from Bill:

Remember Those Who Gave the Ultimate Sacrifice

Tomorrow, our country celebrates Memorial Day. This special day began as a way to show honor for those who gave their lives in defense of our country. Also, many use this day to remember the loved ones who have left the walks of this life.

Remembering those who died in the defense of this country is right and appropriate. Many men and women have lost their lives in the service and the defense of this country. The blood of Americans stained the soil of not only foreign lands, but also the soil of their homeland. These brave men and women paid the ultimate price to keep America free.

President James A. Garfield on a Decoration Day, now our Memorial Day, in a speech at Arlington National Cemetery spoke the following words: "We do not know one promise these men made, one pledge they gave, one word they spoke; but we do know they summed up and perfected, by one supreme act, the highest virtues of men and citizens. For love of country they accepted death, and thus resolved all doubts, and made immortal their patriotism and their virtue."

Our nation needs to pause and reflect upon the fundamental elements upon which this nation was founded. Americans need to think of the great price paid for our freedom, and we should seek to become a nation that again truly trusts in God. May God help our nation to transform so that we will truly be one nation under God.
