Thoughts from Bill:

The Christian's Responsibility (7)

Psalms 33:13-19; Pro. 22:2

It has been well established in this series of lessons that we as Christians have a responsibility to all, both in and out of the body of Christ. Remember that part of the criteria used on Judgment Day will be how we fulfill these responsibilities.

A Christian has a responsibility to recognize the equality of others. As seen in the text of this lesson, God looks upon all people: He looks upon the mighty and the weak; He looks upon rich and poor; He looks upon people of all races, and in all of these various groups He sees one thing: that He is the creator of all (Prov. 22:3; Acts 17:26-29). How do we as Christians view people who are different from ourselves? How do we view someone who is poorer or richer than ourselves? How do we view the homeless? How do we view the one who has a different skin shade than we do? Even our Declaration of Independence declares that “All men are created equal.” And in the sight of God, they are.

Christians have a responsibility to respect others. The word respect, as used in the New Testament, conveys the meaning of placing a value on someone, such as in the case of Gamaliel in Acts 5:34. It also means to have regard as seen in Hebrews 12:9. Paul taught: “Pay to all what is due them: tax to whom tax is due; custom to whom custom; respect to whom respect; honor to whom honor.” (Romans 13:7, NASB 2020). We are to consider others and be respectful to them.

Christians have a responsibility to serve others. Controversy arose between the apostles when James and John, perhaps stirred on by their mother (Matt. 20:20), vied for places of honor and leadership in Christ’s coming kingdom (Mark 10:35-45). The main thing Jesus wanted them to learn about greatness was that it was not achieved by status but by service (Mark 10:45; Matt. 20:26-28). Christians should serve other people as Christ taught and demonstrated when He washed His disciples’ feet (Jn. 13:12-17). May the Lord make us to be a servant just as Christ was.

Christians have a responsibility to show mercy to others. The word mercy in the Bible conveys the idea of faithfulness, kindness, compassion, and pity. Micah 6:8 reads: “He has shown you, O man, what is good; And what does the Lord require of you But to do justly, To love mercy, And to walk humbly with your God?” Zechariah wrote: Thus says the Lord of hosts: “Execute true justice, Show mercy and compassion Everyone to his brother” (Zechariah 7:9, NKJV). Mercy or compassion will keep us from unfairly judging one another (James 2:12-13). If God shows us mercy, shouldn’t we as His children have mercy on others?

Finally, Christians have a responsibility to be sympathetic or compassionate to others. Peter gave the key to harmony in 1 Peter 3:8, and it includes compassion or sympathy. When others struggle, do we feel compassion for them? When others suffer, do we like Job’s friends mourn (Job. 2:11-13)? Do we weep with those who weep (Rom. 12:15)?
